Tribute Wall

“ I'm glad I had Ace in my life for twenty four years. I can say that we had some good times together, whether it be checking trot lines, doing carpentry work (which he loved) or just shootin the bull. I'm sorry he had to leave us, but the Lord has plans for Ace. Myself, I'm very saddened for his wife and children and everyone related to Ace. I'm sorry I cannot be at the viewing or funeral, but those who know why should understand. I know Ace would understand. ACE..I enjoyed every minute we spent together and surely hope we will meet up again and have a good time shootin the bull.

Stafford, what a beautiful tribute to Ace. He so enjoyed spending time with you. Just like I tell anyone else, Ace would be so upset if he caused anyone to have to change their plans on his account. Whether it be for inclement weather, medical issues, their job, or anything else. He never wanted anyone to pity him. He is in heaven now, though, I, and others can still feel his prescience. He will be watching over us and would be so happy to see us reaching out to others, as he always tried to do. God Bless You. Love, Brenda and Erica “ Ace, my beloved husband of almost 50 years, passed away on Monday evening. We met on 2/28/1965 and fell in love that same day. That makes 50 years together. It feels like half of my heart has been ripped out of my chest. Everyone who knew him tells what a special man he was. Just read the comments on the last post I wrote and you will see the pouring in of love that was sent to him. As I said, "Who do you want to make a comment to?" He said, "Tell them ALL I love them." And he meant that whole heartedly. Ace was the most hard working, kindest, caring man anyone has ever met. There isn't a person who knew him, that wouldn't say the same thing. Erica and I will be helping each other to bear this loss. She has been my little trouper, my greatest blessing, my Godsend, throughout these last few months. The Lord sent Ace and I to Erica when she was experiencing her greatest need. Now when Erica and I are experiencing our greatest need, the Lord is pulling us together and wrapping His arms ever so tightly, around us. Please continue to pray for us. And remember, just as Ace said, just as Erica and I are saying now, and just as the Lord wants us to say to you, "Tell them ALL I love them." May God Bless us all. P.S.: The funeral is on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at West Main Baptist Church in in Alice. A viewing will be in Alice. on Friday evening from 6pm to 9 pm at Roberson's Funeral Home.
