“ Clayton, I stayed up late last night reading our text messages from months and even years ago. I'm so thankful I never deleted them. I came across a message you sent me after you flew back to Texas after coming to stay with me in 2017 during a rough time when Tom was sick in the hospital. It was so hard telling each other bye. "Pookie" was our special name for each other and you sent me a text telling me you had just landed and that it was hard to leave but that you loved me very much and would always be here for me. It was a good reminder for me to see because I know that you would send me this exact same message now if you could and in some way... maybe you are... maybe you're still letting me know that it was hard to leave but you're home and you love me and will always be here for me. I know you're in Heaven and I know it's so much better there than it is here... I just miss you so much. I love you Pookie... thank you for being the best big brother a girl could've ever asked for. I wouldn't have traded any of our special memories and moments together for anything in the world. We will all be together again someday and I can't wait until I get to run up to you and feel your arms hugging me again. I love you Pookie.... I'll never let go... I promise....
