“Life is short” I can relate. Harry and I had 17 years growing up, then he was off to the Marines in 1975, soon after Texas. I missed Harry a lot, so I went to Texas the end of 1979 enjoyed Thanksgiving, Christmas & New Years.

We were able to enjoy some rabbit hunting and I watched Harry play one on one basketball with some of his buddies. Harry had some moves!

We made the best of the little time we had. I was on call 24/7 with Halliburton, Harry was on the Rig. I wouldn't get to see my brother for 29 years later after finding out he almost died in 2007.

In January 2008 I was able to make another trip to spend time with him.

We enjoyed the aquarium, hiking on the jetty on the gulf of Mexico, Harry was still Harry, in good spirits as if nothing even happened to him.

That was my brother! I was sad when it was time to leave, we knew it would be the last time we'd see each other in this world.

Still missing you Harry!

Love, your brother Jimmy
