“ She always had a peaceful smile and I have seen her set many at ease with her calmness, she did that to all who had met her, including me! Be at rest my friend, I will light a candle at the Grotto, I believe (if I'm not mistaken that JP brought you there) your spirit will always live on in me and Sandy.

“ Soxy and I go back a long way... we walked this road together, her over there and me here in Australia... She had a real affinity with Australians. I remember when she visited here, we spoke on the phone, but could not coordinate meeting up - distance was a big part of it.

We talked for many hours about her illness and I suggested some alternatives to mainstream... but the thing that stands out for me, were the old days in the chat room, we shared the same passion for the fellowship back then and looked out for the newcomer and tried to protect them from both male and female predators.

I remember how happy she was when she started getting serious with JP... she was a woman in love.

Toward the end I was interviewing Sox for a book I am writing; I didn't think it would be the same without her.

I know I, not unlike many others, will feel a void where her presence once sat... may the pain be over, and the glory be hers.
